☞ Contact the 4-H camp of your choice. Most camps have all the forms you will need available on their websites.

CT 4-H camps offer one of the best bargains around.

Fees are kept low with the help of numerous volunteers who work tirelessly throughout the year to help raise funds in support of camp programs and spend countless hours maintaining each facility.

Camperships are available on a limited basis.

4-H camp is provided on a non-discriminatory basis and is open to all without regard to race, color, sex, national origin, religion or disability.

All 4-H camp programs are provided through a partnership between county 4-H camp foundations and Univ. of Connecticut Extension.

UConn Extension is an equal opportunity employer and program provider.

4-H...Where Learning for Living Is Fun for Everyone!

Discover what 4-H can do for your children the rest of the year as well as at camp. In Connecticut, 4-H is open to all young people between the ages of 7-19 years old.

To learn more about all the exciting project areas and how you can help your children discover their "Passport to New Worlds" contact your local county UCONN Extension center or the state 4-H office at 1-888-FOUR-H-CT or check us out on the web at www.4h.uconn.edu

Charting A Course To Successful Summer Experiences

→ Charting the Course

The first question every child is asked when they return to school in the fall is, “What did you do this summer?” Will your child say they sat home bored or excitedly share the life changing experiences they had at camp? Exploration, discovery, encouragement and challenge. At Connecticut’s four 4-H camps, children have the opportunity to put all these words into action whether exploring the world around or the world within. Through our educational/recreational programs campers learn to grow socially, intellectually and emotionally. By living cooperatively in a natural environment, campers focus on developing life skills with an emphasis on experiential learning (learning by doing).
